Golf Course Superintendent News

Briane Faletto, GCS      Class A Superintendent

With November upon us it means time for the cold weather. We have taken all the necessary measures to help all the turf areas make it through the cold winter months. Throughout November we will be continually cleaning up debris on the course as all the leaves will be dropping from the trees. We will also start doing some tree cleanup as we have a few trees along the course that have died. Keeping the course clean and playable will be our main focus.

We have also taken all the necessary measures to maintain the health of the greens and to get them through the winter months. We have slowly raised the height of the greens mowers to .150, and have added phosphorous to them to help the plants store nutrients throughout the winter. We will slow down on mowing and roll them a little more often to reduce any stress and to keep them smooth.

I would like to mention a few things to help ensure the best conditions for all players. Please remember to fix your ball marks on the greens. We have noticed a LOT of unfixed plugs, which then get scalped by the mowers. Also, please rake up your footprints in the bunkers and leave the rake inside the bunker when done. And also, please remember to follow the 90 degree rule on the cart paths. With the winter months upon us, the cart traffic will be high.

Thank you,

Briane Faletto, GCS

Class A Superintendent

Hope you all will come out and enjoy YOUR course!!!

"Calling Invisible
Women" by Jeanne
Ray

A mom in her early fifties, Clover knows she no longer turns heads the way she used to, and she's only really missed when dinner isn't on the table on time. Then Clover wakes up one morning to discover she's invisible--truly invisible. She panics even more when her family doesn't notice a thing. Her best friend immediately observes the change, which relieves Clover immensely--she's not losing her mind after all!--but she is crushed by the realization that neither her husband nor her children ever truly look at her. She was invisible even before she knew it.
